JAIPUR THEATRE FESTIVAL 2016

From President Desk

Dear Friends,

This is a matter of pride & Pleasure for us to bring the 5th Edition of Jairangam Theatre Festival-2016

The Jaipur Theatre festival was established in the year 2001 with a vision of creating a festival of soil, which would enlighten, enliven and enrich the cultural, real-life and creative spirit of people and also to provide a platform to artists, individual or group of people for the flowering of his/her/their human spirit.

Jairangam is a cross interaction platform between the regional, national and international level of amateurs, performers, actors, directors, story tellers, scriptwriters, technicians, artists, etc. – where they exchange their values, expertise, professionalism, learnings, experiments, etc. with a wide open relevant world to take their form of art and exposure to the next level as per the global standards. It is also a platform to resurrect, rejuvenate and redefine the aura & importance of performing arts, theatre (rang manch a.k.a rang mandir) and many others, to connect with the classes and masses and to keep them deep rooted within their elements; so that generations can sow 'n reap the benefits out of the whole endeavour.

Jairangam is an initiative by 3M Dot Bands created by humble, creative, well educated, versatile and avid theatre loving patrons.

We hope that this endeavor will be a mile stone in the journey of the theatre world & leads to greater heights of future.

HAMLET IN HAMLET OUT (MSMSV SCHOOL PRODUCTION)

Directed by:- PRANAB MUKHERJEE

ENGLISH

21st November, 2016

Time:- 12.00 PM

Krishnayan (JKK)

Duration:-100 mins

This movement piece pays tribute to 450 and 400 years of William Shakespeare's birth and death commemoration respectively and looks at an internal monologue that goes on inside Hamlet's mind.

The purpose of the piece is to peep into a director's mindscape as he rehearses the play. Not to make Hamlet, a storyboard character or a dramatic treatment. And more importantly to decode the goings on in the world from a South Asian pair of eyes and not makes the bard a construct of the claustrophobic diction-delivery-costume axis.

Who is Hamlet? Is he a byword for ideological loneliness... is he a metaphor for a constant sense of displacement... is the idea of Hamlet a call to amend, append and subvert our times.. Can we find him in the trance of Salbega, ulatbasis of kabir or the dissent that defines Bant Singh or Fela Kuti? Which Hamlet are we seeking and who are we looking for?

This piece is a quilt stitched from a performer's point-of-view, largely looking at the Hamlet that lurks inside us.

Who is Hamlet? A man lost in life... a waylaid person.. a women coming to terms with her domestic and public person.. A person grappling with what the cloud of terror around us ..Is Hamlet another word for death of a dream? ... Is it a byword for social alienation? Is Hamlet a term for the all the fringe, refugee and Mensheviks of the world.

Sanjeev Chowdhary is a successful writer, who lives in Kasauli with his second wife, Ritu. Needing to do a little research on the paranormal for his new novel, he decides to organise a séance with the help of an eccentric medium, Madhumalti, but nothing goes as planned and Sanjeev gets much more than he asked for as the evening progresses. The tale unfolds with multiple twists and turns and hilarity ensues as Sanjeev's first and second wives deviously vie for his attention...

This light-hearted comedy completely refuses to engage with the real world but more than makes up for this by engaging with the next!

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Noel Coward's quintessentially British drawing-room comedy Blithe Spirit was the inspiration behind this work but my goal while adapting it was to alter the citizenship of its soul to Indian, not merely in terms of language but more fundamentally, in terms of the style of its humour and its socio-cultural essence. In directing this play, my aim was (a) to primarily provide sheer entertainment and (b) to work with a naturalistic mode of presentation devoid of the sort of technical enhancements which occasionally look perilously close to gimmickry. The story is farcical and unrealistic but the form I have chosen for it is completely realistic.

LAL DED

Directed by:- MEETA VASISHT

ENGLISH & KASHMIRI

21st November, 2016

Time:- 1.00 PM

Maharana
Pratap Auditorium

Duration:- 80 mins

Our active, breathing engagement, with the poetry of our great poets, (both contemporary and those immortal)

Our relationship to the poetry of our respective cultures and ethnicities, allows for us to live our times with understanding, wisdom and compassion, and with an empowered sense of Self.

The ability to turn the gaze inwards and to engage with the introspective self is, and has been, the great raison d'être, for the arts (performing and others) to exist.

It is also the power of the theater (theatre comes into being through an active engagement with all the arts and indeed our classical plays and epics were written as kavya)

This ability: the ability to engage with the introspective self, is what makes the presence of the poet, the performer, the artist seminal to civilization at all times. At all times.

Indeed at all times.

A Play, a Film and the Poet Within is a journey into the collective consciousness of the present times.

The poet that I engage with seminally is LalDed, the iconic woman mystic and poet of 14th century Kashmir.

Revered and loved for 700 years, right upto the present day, she is a shared archetype for all Kashmiris, both the Muslims and the Pandits of Kashmir.

Her poetry and life has also found a resonance amongst people from other parts of India (as well as amongst the people from France, Holland, Germany).

The power of LalDed has not diminished over the centuries, even as her presence continues to defy all attempts to define her or confine her to any 'ism'...

The session on the above themes will be conducted by a contemporary poet or writer or teacher of poetry who would also lead the participants to write a poem of 4 or 6 or 8 lines.

If indeed some poetry emerges from these workshops that could beautifully reveal the deep inner spirit of the times we are living in, Seagull Publications (Kolkata) would be happy to come in as a publishing partner to publish a book (s) of the same.

Duration:-150 mins

A small time street smart, conman, antique dealer, Kishan, who is an atheist is married to a very religious woman. There is always an argument about religion in the house. Hilariously funny situations are created due to this conflict.

Suddenly, Krishan's shop is destroyed by earthquake. Insurance company declines the claim as 'Act of God'.

Unsuccessful in getting money from Insurance, Kishan Sues God since it was an Act of God that destroyed his shop. The decisions send a shock wave in the family and in the society. It creates Media frenzy about the case. Though he is not a lawyer but fights the case himself. Some of the best and most light hearted court scenes are created with arguments on both sides of the religion and the debate on existence of God.

God visits him in person to explain that he cannot win and therefore should withdraw the case.

After being convinced that Kishan is an ordinary man fighting for his rights and rightfully fighting against people exploiting religion, God often visits him at his home, shows him ways to defeat the people defending the case on behalf of temples and God.

He actually WINS the case.. At some point God shows him a miracle to prove he is the God, which unfortunately happens to be his last day of life. God himself delivers this bad news to him.

Media reports about his actions of fighting against the people who exploits God and religion, makes him semi-God after death. Pandit and Pujaaris exploit his death and declare him a semi-god at a press conference. People starts praying in his name and build temples for him.

Kishan pleads God to give him re-birth so he can spread the true meaning of prayers and religion to public. Will God grant him his wish?

PAUL GOMRA

(A TRANSMIGRATION)

Directed by:- SANTANU MALLICK

ENGLISH

22nd November, 2016

Time:- 11.30 AM
4.30 PM

Krishnayam
(JKK)

Duration:-50 mins

"Paul GomraKa Scooter" [Paul Gomra's scooter], written by the Hindi writer UdayPrakash, the eponymous protagonist of Prakash's short story is a Hindi poet who works at a newspaper in New Delhi. Paul Gomra was born as Ram GopalSaksena which is a typical Hindu name but the narrator informs us, as a result of "technological and social changes, globalization, information and communication revolutions, the end of socialism, and the spread of markets across the entire planet," names like Ram GopalSaksena had begun to seem "backward, narrow-minded and lower-class." Consequently, our hero took the "pal" out of "Ram Gopal" and made it "Paul"; then, he took up the remaining "Ram Go" and turned it into "Gomra." With these nominal changes, he joined figures-real and imagined-of cultural and political importance to cope up with the current Indian scene. After changing his name to Paul Gomra, the former Ram GopalSaksena does something equally momentous: he buys a scooter. This later decision is precipitated by the fact that all around him people have begun to travel in new cars. "While these people 'reached new, impossible destinations,' Paul Gomra felt he 'was dragging behind time like a worm, a centipede, a turtle, a snail.'" As it happens, the new scooter isn't becoming helpful as Paul Gomra does not know how to ride it. Its gleaming skeleton begins to rot outside his apartment. Finally, Paul finds a man who is able to ride the scooter to work; he accompanies the man as a rider. In the hours that he must wait each night for this man's work to end so he can catch a ride to home, incidentally Paul Gomra rediscovers his passion for poetry. One night, he goes to a glamorous literary event in New Delhi. The reader gets only a muddled, secondhand account of the evening's events: we hear that Gomra drunkenly berated the assembled guests for their worship of officialdom; he gave them a lecture on the scooter as a revolutionary tool; he fulminated against Delhi; he said the countryside had not vanished. "Dinosaurs become extinct," Paul seems to have shouted. "The ant survives, you thieves! Delhi will become history, but Gurgaon will remain alive." On the ride back home, Paul Gomra and his friend met with a mysterious accident. Hours later, they are found and admitted to a hospital, but Paul Gomra disappears three days later. We hear of a deranged highway poet who has taken up a pre-Independence slogan: "Quit India!" But already, his memory has begun to vanish; all that left are twisted remains of Paul Gomra's scooter and the yellowing diary pages locked inside the scooter's trunk. On the last page, dated August 15, 1995-the date when India celebrates its independence each year are the words of Paul Gomra's last poem.

नौटंकी का इतिहास बहुत पुराना है उत्तर भारत में बादशाह औरंगजेब के शासन काल में इस कला को आगे बढ़ाने के प्रयास हुए और उसमें सफलता भी मिली। तब से गायकी प्रधान ये कला परवान चढती गई, दोहा, चोबोला, बहेरतवील, लावनी, गीत, गजल, कव्वाली, इत्यादी छंदों का प्रयोग होता आया है। मुख्य रूप से नौटंकी की गायन शैली इन्ही पर आधारित है। राजा से रंक तक सभी तबकों में नौटंकी, स्वांग लोकप्रिय रहे है।

समय निकलते रंगमंच कलाओं को दूरदर्शन और सिनेमा आदि से काफी नुकसान होता जा रहा है। और उस में भी स्वांग, नौटंकी आदि तो बिल्कुल ही लुप्तप्राय होते जा रहे है। मेरा बचपन यूपी-राजस्थान की सीमा के आस पास गुजरा, पारिवारिक परिवेश गायकी विरासत में मिली। जयपुर रंगमंच ने एक पहचान दी। कई नाटकों में संगीत देने के साथ-साथ अभिनय और गायन का मौका मिला। इसी रंगयात्रा का एक और पड़ाव है। ये नौटंकी, "आला अफसर" आपकी सेवा में प्रस्तुत कर रहा हूँ। यह नाटक नहीं बल्कि नौटंकी शैली को लुप्त होने से बचाने की दिशा में मेरे और मेरी टीम के द्वारा उठाया गया एक सार्थक कदम है।

आशादर्शन कला संस्था के बैनर पर 30 दिवसीय कार्यशाला में तैयार उक्त नौटंकी "आला अफसर" में नवीन एवं उभरते लगभग 30-35 कलाकारों ने भानदार अभिनय किया है।

The play is essentially about a rich eccentric octogenarian who is used to living a luxurious and flamboyant life and is swept off his feet by a beautiful young girl in his neighborhood, who incidentally is also the love interest of his son...

Meer Sahab falls for the young daughter of his neighbor Sheikh Inayatullah. His son, Tabish, is also in love with the same girl (Suraiya) and wants to marry her. Sheikh Sahab on the other hand wants to get Suraiya married to a dynamic man, charming young writer, Shaukat, who is an acquaintance of both Meer Sahab & Sheikh Sahab. Shaukat is a genuine well wisher of Meer Sahab who wants him to stop splurging his wealth on his tawaif (Heera & Gulab) and return to his good old days. Meer Sahab wants Shaukat to convince Sheikh that he is a great prospect for his daughter and at the same time, Sheikh wants Shaukat to counter Mir Sahib's advances and teach him a lesson...

As a result, Shaukat is embroiled in an unwanted sticky situation and all this leads to major confusion, misunderstanding, jealousy and an utterly hilarious series of events!

इंसान एक सामाजिक प्राणी है। आज के आधुनिक दौर में हम आधुनिक तो होते जा रहे हैं, लेकिन कहीं ना कहीं सामाजिक रिश्तों से दूरी बनाते जा रहे हैं, नाटक पिता और पुत्र के बीच संबंधों को दर्शाता है। नाटक की कहानी 70 से 80 के दशक के बीच है, जब संचार का माध्यम चिट्ठीयाँ हुआ करती थी। ये नाटक पिता के उस मनोभावों को दर्शाता है जो काफी वक़्त से अपने बेटे की चिट्ठी का इंतज़ार कर रहा है। नाटक 70-80 के दशक का होने का बावजूद भी आज के समय में प्रासंगिक है। क्योंकि हम अपने रिश्तों और भावनाओं को खोते जा रहे हैं। जो कि मनुष्य का लक्षण है। ये नाटक इस भावनात्मक पहलु को उजागर करने का एक प्रयास है।

The story of "Eladidi" is not only the story of Eladidi but also of emancipation. It is a story of Mukti a ordinary girl who has a talent of telling stories. Burdened with expectations and constantly compared to Eladidi. Mukti wants to like her. Ela-a pretty, educated, intelligent one-known as Eladidi of Mukti. Mukti grows hearing of comparison all the time with Ela a common scenario in society. The unachieved desire of parents come upon the children like Mukti; and they tried hard to be so from the childhood, making it their motto of life. Every child have a philosopher, Mukti had his Own elder brother "DADA"..He also suffered like mukti. Mukti never realized her brother's philosophy... Their aim is to be a photocopy of Eladidi. She wants to be Eladidi- the neighbor, Eladidi- the singer, Eladidi- the heroine or at least Eladidi a domestic lady. Mukti had no beauty, no wealth. she had not the ability; but there is no end of being Eladidi. But life doesn't progress following the rules of mathematics. That life is not a colorful picture of childhood is proved by the ups and down of life. Life proves that brutes with their sharp claws live side the Muktis. So, they failed to be one like Eladidi. Naturally their lives become confined in four walls boundary- to remain alive only by name. Then.....? Mukti starts a journey of her self-realization... It is her journey, It is the story... an ordinary story of ordinary journey of an ordinary repertory, Bhopal intent to explore and share their experience with society.

The trio binded by a singular thread of passion for theatre, came together in moments of time borrowed out of individual commercial commitments. The idea of script was conceptualized by Samta Sagar and was manifested over a cup of coffee which later took full fledged shape of a play after getting creative inputs from Virendra Saxena.

Series of brain storming sessions, numerous discussions to sort out and create creative differences and consensus in the journey, "Jaana Tha Roshanpura"

"Sahiban, life is as temporal as a dream. But those who die for love are remembered. Laila, Sassi, and Heer are now revered. Let's pray before God to give our love a pleasant end" - Hafiz Barkhudar

Love is everywhere, experienced by everyone in a thousand different forms. But the essence still remains the same. And nowhere does this essence find better expression than in the music of Punjab. Let these sounds take you on a journey back and forth through time, unravelling some of the greatest love stories of Punjab and re-imagining them like never before. Perhaps, in these motifs, each of us will discover the shades of our own love and longing. "Raavan Ki Ramayan" which features the legendary actor Puneet Issar in the role of Raavan is a re-look at the history from the point of view of those who lost and never got a chance to tell their side of story. A virtuous king of a prosperous kingdom is outraged at the ravaged modesty of his sister and sets out for a dignified revenge. But he falls for the defiance and audacity of an abducted woman and ultimately throws his kingdom into a great war against the will of many of his ministers, wife including his eldest son. The war within him poses him against the questions of his wife, sons, gods and ancestors and war outside ultimately becomes the eternal war of Sur and Asur with high stakes from history on both sides. What unfolds is an epic hit hero unheard.

Waiting for Godot is an absurdist play by Samuel Beckett, in which two characters, Vladimir and Estragon, wait endlessly and in vain for the arrival of someone named Godot. Waiting for Godot is Beckett's translation of his own original French version, En attendant Godot, and is subtitled (in English only) "a tragicomedy in two acts". The original French text was composed between 9th Oct., 1948 and 29th Jan. 1949.

It is a play on the human condition, a meditation on the human predicament in mid-twentieth century Europe. Thus it is a play about characters, not what happens to them but about them, a portrayal of human beings without any answer or certainties. This is the anxiety that Vladimir and Estragon carry with them. Is there a Godot? What does he look like? How does he behave? Will he come at all? What will he do for that? Should they invest any hope in him? They don't know any of the answer, only that they are on very slippery ground. Lacking any firm basis for their hopes, they keep falling literally to the ground. Man is in a truly fallen state. Meanwhile, what do they do, as they wait for some solution with what is only a fleeting hope or even less? That is the play.

Among the characters, Vladimir is the soul and Estragon is the body of the play. The other two characters, Pozzo is so obviously the master and Lucky, the slave (living with the burden of his name). There is one more character in the play who acts like a messenger. And the title character of the play, Godot, is a character but not present on the stage.

The play is a classic tale of a possible case of a paradox which happens because of time travel. An average writer in 70's classic of America bets a bartender that he will tell him the best story he has ever heard. Bartender who is an undercover agent of a secret organization called "BUREAU" which aims at maintaining the happenings in the past; offers a deal which can make the writer take his revenge. Bartender with the help of a time machine takes the writer in his past; where he accidentally meets himself and what happens there changes him as a whole. The entire story is centered on a person caught up in a question of "who am I?" which ultimately becomes a paradox and to believe it is the new beginning of his life.

Bihar's folk theatre reverberates with Bhikhari Thakur's Bidesia. BhikhariThakur was an artist, a dramatist and a poet who exhibited his play among the Masses; focusing on their pains, sorrows and miseries. After the mutiny of 1857, Bihar and Eastern Uttar Pradesh were in the grip of famine that changed the Concept of livelihood into one of agony, compelling the people to leave their Homeland. The problem still exists. In Bidesia, the character Bidesia leaves his newly married wife Pyari Sundari and seeks employment in Calcutta. There he gets involved with another woman, Rakhelin and begets two children. For years together Pyari Sundari received no news of her husband. A Batohi, on his way to Calcutta takes pity on Pyari and brings back Bidesia with him. Pyari who accepts Rakhelin wins the heart of the people for not forgetting the Dharma of Pativrata. The Play depicts the loneliness of Pyari whose agony, Chahat and Tadap for Bidesia know no limits. Bidesia is the story of Values, displayed in rhythm Biraha and torture felt by a woman and her determination to get her husband back.

What happens when a sex worker in rural North India is pitted against a woman film maker from the urban India?

Plot:

Pooja and her Brit boyfriend Mitch are fresh out of a film school and travel from London to India to make a documentary on Traditional sex workers of an Indian Village in North India.

In the village they meet Seema and Rupa. One is a brazen sex worker, the other a quiet shy girl on the brink of an initiation into the age old profession.

As the cameras roll and the village girls open up to these strangers about their lives and profession, Pooja and Mitch realize that the subject may not have been such an easy choice. The world they thought they wanted to document may not be what they had imagined / presumed. The girls may not be as devious as they had thought but perhaps not as simple either. Soon, the mind games begin. ...equations begin to change, power play shifts and as new crisis and equilibriums begin to emerge, older ones start crumbling.....

For each question there are many asked in return by the village girls.

The Film does get over finally but at a cost.....

In the framework of gender politics and man-woman dynamic, Ok Tata Bye Bye raises the questions: In a society where sex is the currency to sell anything and everything ranging from face cream to energy drinks to 100 crore blockbusters, how different are the modern societies from these so called backward communities?

As the play began we could see a painter on the right sidecorner of the up stage, standing on a raised platform. He was moving his brush feverishly on a painting frame supported by a stand. The passion and intensity associated to this revealed a restless soul. He was Vincent Van Gogh.

The lights shifted to the down stage centre. From the right wing a gentleman in brown suit and hat came down walking with a bunch of flowers in hand. He wanted to pay homage to a departed soul lying within a coffin. The coffin moved a little. A bunch of sunflowers came through the open lid. The gentleman held them to his bosom. He was Theo. Written by Mahamatya Vatsraj in 11th century, Hasyachoodamani is a Sanskrit Prahsan (satire) leading towards a situational chaos that sums up at the epitome of busty laughter and hard hitting satire on business made in the name of religion. The play also brings the point in focus that the subject of the play has journeyed over thousand years which is equally contemporary and practical. Hasyachoodamani revolves around the comic situations that evolve around superstition and fraud. What makes this play interesting is that it portrays the corruption in a way where characters don't give the impression of any pessimism, but rather innocence leading to extortion.

We are so busy in our life that we don't look backwards what we have left unsaid or unheard. Have we done anything worth saying? Or have we abandoned someone from our lives? Do we actually have any relevance of our deeds in our lives? Or have we kept such incidents deep down in our treasure box?

In the course of time and life we tend to do certain immoral things which leave a long lasting impact on the lives of our loved ones, this story is all about those impure sins that we do and later regret. Is more like confessions of our soul? Dialogue between a man & his soul. He narrates the story in funny ways, with wit, fun & irony. It's hilarious portrayal of a character.

The play is based on DharamvirBharti's "SurajKaSatwan Ghoda" a short novel which is highly acclaimed in the Hindi literary circles. Unicorn actors' studio brings this classic novel on stage in form of a full length play.

The play is a humorous journey, an amalgam of seven small stories of different emotions and flavors. As the play grows the characters and situations of these stories intersects and overlaps each other. The border of the different stories merges and finally brings a single story. All humor, funny incidents and comedy of these stories becomes commentary on the moral aberrations and distortions in Indian middle class society. Manikmulla and his three lovers Jamuna, Lilly and Satti at different point of his life tells about our society and us.

Humor becomes serious, comedy gets darker and stories turn real..... Come to watch the reality of society where failure, hopelessness, corruption and darkness end with light and hope.

Duration:-70 mins

'A Woman Alone' is story of a housewife driven to extreme measures by an abusive husband, a younger lover, a perverted brother-in-law, a peeping neighbor and a crying baby. The entire story is told by woman herself, while chatting to her neighbor whom she had just met through the window. Anger, frustration, hope, regret, guilt and determination are just some of the inner turmoil this woman goes through. The perverted brother in law who doesn't let his wheelchair bound disabled body stop him interfering with any woman in sight, triggers off laughter, reminding the audience that they're watching a comedy after all! But things soon become darker as she takes extreme measures to save her sanity. A Woman Alone was written by acclaimed Italian playwrights Dario Fo and Franca Rame, two of Italy's best-known performers and political activists.

A one woman show, "A Woman Alone" is a testimony to the human spirit and hits on stereotypes, violence, & demonstrates that which we are all capable of doing when pushed to the limit of our patience.

Duration:- 130 mins

IPTA MUMBAI'S SHATRANJ KE MOHRE is running to packed houses since the last forty years. It's a great hilarious social comedy.

We as humans at times become pawns of our own system. Social values adopted by one set of people may not be suitable to another set of people. It's the story of a household where two different ideologies clash but with a lot of laughter. Thrown into a cauldron of humor and tossed, the residue is nothing but comedy, laughter and wit.

There is a household in INDORE where KAKAJI lives with his nephew SHAAM (Rakesh Bedi) and niece USHA along with a battery of servants who are more like family members than domestic helps. KAKAJI'S PHILOSOPHY is that take life as it comes. He and Shaam never follow any cult nor believe in any religious rituals. They discuss anything under the sun including SHAAM'S girlfriends. They also often have a game of chess where all the servants too intrude creating funny tiffs.

Though the entire household is "Happy Go Lucky" but USHA follows a certain ACHARYA JI. when ACHARYAJI lands up in this carefree household along with his "shishya" GEETA, SHAAM'S philosophy goes for a toss as he falls head over heels for GEETA. And also becomes a follower of ACHARYAJI.

KAKAJI is the most amused in this situation as SHAAM who was once happy go lucky fellow is now hanging in the sphere of "To be or not to be".

When these two different ideologies are thrown into the cauldron of clash, the residue is nothing but wit and humor.

The formidable cast boasts of actors like ANJAN SHRIVASTAV, RAKESH BEDI, BHARAT KAPOOR, BANSI THAPAR, AVTAR GILL, RAMAN KUMAR, RASHMI SHARMA and AVTAR GILL.

Edward Albee is a Pulitzer Prize winning American playwright.

Zoo Story is his most famous one-act play adapted in Hindi as Seldom Bites.

Here two strangers encounter at a park. While one person is desperate to have a conversation the other gentleman simply wants to read peaceful.

Sardonic humor between the two builds up to an unexpected climax, where one man brings the other down to his own savage level.

Albee always felt that among the two men in drama one character has a larger role.

Forty years later that urge to equalize both the characters resulted in At Home a prequel to Zoo Story.

4th Wall has blended both dramas into one adaptation titled Seldom Bites.

Duration:-100 mins

Set in a reserve forest in Rajasthan, India, NIGHT'S END unfolds the story of Krishnan Nair. Born into a family of Kathakali artistes and trained in the art from childhood, Krishnan runs away from his native village in Kerala, and becomes a forest guard in a tiger sanctuary. In moments of emotional intensity, the Kathakali artiste in him finds solace dancing.

The plot moves through his attempts to enlist the help of the tiger hunting Mogiyatribals to save the tiger, his friendship with Billu Mogiya the drummer, his romance with Billu's sister Chandni Mogiya, and his encounters with the poaching mafia.

NIGHT'S END is a tale of betrayal, abandonment and loss in which the actions of humans—indigenous peoples, settlers, tourists, the state, the media—powerfully affect the fragile eco-system we inhabit.

NIGHT'S END is also a love story

Duration:- 120 mins

When Emperor Shahjahan fell ill in 1657, a war of succession broke out among his four sons, DaraShukoh, Shuja, Aurangzeb and Murad. The main contenders were Dara and Aurangzeb while Shahjahan's two daughters Jahanara and Roshanara, supported Dara and Aurangzeb respectively. The Emperor himself lent his support to his eldest son Dara, who alone of the four brothers, was present at Agra and sympathetic to Shahjahan's dream plan of building a black-marble-mahal for himself on the other side of Yamuna facing Mumtaz's Tajmahal.

The play begins with the conversation between two of Aurangzeb's spies in Agra Fort, who tell us of others spying on them, indicating Aurangzeb's suspicious nature as well as his attempt to be in control. The play selects telescopes and fuses events to capture the fissures as well as the peaks of a period of history. The war of succession to throne and issues and ideologies that the major players in the drama represent: Shahjahan symbolises a decadent, self-indulgent, romantic aestheticism; Aurangzeb articulates and fiercely fights to establish an Islamic fundamentalist state; and Dara projects himself as a philosopher-statesman striving to preserve a pluralist society and nation. Shahjahan dreams about a black-marble-mahal for himself, Aurangzeb dreams of 'one nation, one language, one religion', while Dara fears that Aurangzeb will destroy the precious heritage of Akbar.

The play has as its theme the struggles of mutually contradictory dispositions of the various characters: Shahjahan and Aurangzeb; Dara and Aurangzeb; Jahanara and Roshanara; and finally Aurangzeb versus Aurangzeb. Shahjahan lives in the past, Dara in the future, and Aurangzeb in the present. Aurangzeb's success is the triumph of pragmatism but he has to pay dearly as we find him in the last scene sitting not on his Peacock throne but beside it on the floor. His loneliness becomes his tragedy. The play ends with him asking himself the question: 'Am I a devout Muslim or a fanatic?' He is left awaiting the judgment of history.
