DARAREN

Directed by Vikas Bahari
Prism Theatre Society, Delhi

Synopsis:

Many a times you have to cut a finger to save the hand. But the real chaos starts when one cannot decide which finger to sacrifice. Crisis brings out the best and worst within all of us. We either succumb to circumstantial crisis or we make crisis a ladder.

A typical Indian family is struggling to make ends meet. Everyday arguments and taunts to each other turns into a mysterious drama when there is a robbery in the house. While there are many suspects from outside the family. But there is more to this than what meets the eye. Do you have the sherlocks instinct in you to figure out, who created the mess? Is there anyone inside the house who could be involved?
